

A lookbook for autumn as told by The Wild Mother

2019

AUTUMN

TWM

*How high can the moon go in this crisp distance? How quickly can time lapse in this evening air? How true can a heart love with the release of her leaves?
We're stripped back to our truest elements, so we draw others close, listening to their whispers, on a long wind. We build fires and set tables to be enjoyed early in the night, when the day begins to fade. And then my lover holds my hand to share a memory. We draw close. We draw close.*

STUDIO / DESIGNER

THE WILD MOTHER

MATERIALS

FLOWERS, DRIED FOLIAGE, BASKETS, TAPE, WIRE, VELVET RIBBON

During Autumn, you'll find The Wild Mother Creative Studio in full swing, preparing for our most robust season of events. With the Earth showing off her boldest colors and intriguing textures, our team manifests a true sense of bounty. We love the imagery of setting a table with a simple harvest's spread and placing a bold floral arrangement right in the center that reminds your guests of life's cycles.

This year, our designers are particularly intrigued by the golden, honey, and terracotta hues of Autumn. We hope to juxtapose modern tables, gowns, and hair with plenty of texture.

As you browse through this seasonal lookbook, please jot down any ideas that it may spark, and be sure to share with one of our designers!

Much love,
The Wild Mother

2 — seasonal lookbook

WORDS OF INSPIRATION

bountiful

nostalgic

picturesque crisp

rich

COLOR

neutral

blush

saturated

INSPIRATION—01

INSPIRATION—2

A lookbook for winter as told by The Wild Mother

2019

W I N T E R

TWM

Write me a letter, a poem, a song. Notate it in your hand—on lined paper, on staff paper, or on the back of a napkin. Send it by post, that way it will see the country on its way here. I'll bake you a pound cake—a selfish gesture, I must confess. The oven's heat will warm the whole house for hours. And, as the cake rises in my great-grandmother's bundt pan, I'll line a box with wax paper where the cake will live during its journey by post. And when you're home, we'll remember these days apart.

STUDIO / DESIGNER

THE WILD MOTHER

MATERIALS

FLOWERS, FOLIAGE, METALLIC BOWLS, WIRE, CHEESECLOTH

Winter is full of sacred moments: holy holidays, well worn traditions, and the ringing in of a new year. It is a time of pure magic and nostalgia which our designers revel in. In these months of sparse vegetation and a chill in the air, we are stripped down to the core of ourselves, and our true nature is on display as we attend parties, sing hymns, and gather with family.

During this season, our designers hope our work reflects the beauty of scarcity—pulling no stops, sparing extravagance in exchange for timeless elegance. We aim to mirror nature's provision of momentary color in an otherwise stark landscape—usually reds berries, green foliage, blue berries—throughout our winter designs.

Much love,
The Wild Mother

WORDS OF INSPIRATION

elemental

sturdy fragrant

magical traditional cozy

COLOR

neutral

blush

saturated

INSPIRATION—01

INSPIRATION—02

A lookbook for spring as told by The Wild Mother

2020

S P R I N G

TWM

We huddled around the fireplace and sipped on cup after cup of tea to chase away the chill of Winter. Then, she sprouted from the Earth like watercolors traveling the highway fibers of the Painter's canvas. Spring had come! Her dance was intoxicating and made even the coldest heart among us feel her charm. So now, let us go out of doors and breathe in the dew.

STUDIO / DESIGNER

THE WILD MOTHER

MATERIALS

BULB-FLOWERS, BLOOMING BRANCHES, GARDEN POTS, SILK RIBBON

After every Winter season, the anticipation of Spring is nearly tangible at The Wild Mother Creative Studio. Choosing TWM for your event, wedding, or singular custom arrangement means that you are investing in living art that is not contrived and is always nodding to the new life of Spring.

Our love/love relationship with color, obsession with texture, and inspiration from the natural world lends itself to a truly unique floral design approach. So, as you browse through this seasonal lookbook, please jot down any ideas that you have dreamt up and we will come around it with what we do best!

Kindly, TWM

WORDS OF INSPIRATION

ethereal

romantic bright cheerful much

COLOR

neutral

blush

saturated

INSPIRATION—01

INSPIRATION—02

A lookbook for summer as told by The Wild Mother

2020

S U M M E R

TWM

Let's rise early before the Summer sun grows. It's time to glean from the peach trees again. Can't you smell their fruit from here? And, when we've gathered our bushels of every bit that's ripe, we'll pack a lunch basket filled from the garden and head for the trail. Once we've climbed half way to the top, we'll rest in the wild onion patch eating our precious gold. The air will be heavy and balmy for the creek in the West pasture is brimming over. Nevertheless, we will wipe our brows not minding one bit. This day and its every detail has already been forged by our kin generations before. So let's climb to the top where they have been, looking out at what is old, familiar, and sacred. Definitely sacred. Again, I say, let's rise early before the Summer sun grows.

STUDIO / DESIGNER

THE WILD MOTHER

MATERIALS

LOCAL FLOWERS, GARDEN ROSES, WHITE BOWLS, LINEN

For The Wild Mother, Summer is a season of planning, plotting, and preparing for the year ahead. Things slow down in our studio, which gives space to hone our craft and discuss future weddings and events.

The occasional Summer event is a treat for us because we procure local bounty from Oklahoma City's gardens—fragrant basil, zennia, and wild vines become the backdrop for boutique roses, tulips, and dahlia we purchase from all over the world.

We love these slow, hot, long days and cherish every moment of rest. We find them to be a time to host in the simplest of ways, with only the necessary elements present. We hope your partys this Summer are just as sweet.

Sincerely,
TWM

WORDS OF INSPIRATION

balmy spiced

overgrown nostalgic

COLOR

neutral

blush

saturated

INSPIRATION—01

INSPIRATION—02

